SAM WARNER HELD ON STATE CHARGE

Board of Health Officer Swears Out Warrant Charging Violation of Sanitation Code—Pleads Not Guilty.

C. E. Puerner, an investigator of the state board of health, yesterday swore out a warrant against Sam Warner, proprietor of a barber shop, cigar store and billiard hall at 38 South Main street, charging Warner with violation of Wisconsin statutes in using the place of business for a poolroom and cigar store as a barber shop, the barber shop not being located in a room or rooms provided especially for that purpose.

Warner appeared before Judge H. L. Maxwell and plead not guilty to the charge. The case was set for Nov. 28.

The last legislature enacted a law which divorced the cigar store and cigar case from the barber shop.

THURSDAY'S MARKETS.
The expected again happened in the lamb trade yesterday, best selling 20c above Wednesday at $11.70, or $1.60 above low point last month and highest of the season.

Average price of hogs yesterday advanced 10c, standing highest in a week and 37c above last Saturday. Range of values is somewhat narrow.

The swine market seems to be in healthier shape than late last week, notwithstanding continued heavy receipts. Best lots sold at $10.05 yesterday, with 210@300 lb. "packing" droves at $9.53@9.85.

Receipts for today are estimated at 6,000 cattle, 18,000 hogs and 18,000 sheep, against 4,722 cattle, 28,118 hogs and 20,346 sheep a year ago.

Average price of hogs at Chicago was $9.67, against $9.57 Wednesday, $9.70 a week ago and $10.00 a year ago.

Cattle Trade Healthy.
Prevailing cattle prices stand 50c@ $1 above late in October, with a good undercurrent of strength. Best steers advanced yesterday, 2 1/2@11.15, with the right kind worth $12 or more. Quotations:

Choice to fancy steers...$11.20@12.05
Poor to good steers...7.90@11.10

Fighting In A British Tank; One of the Crew Tells Story

London, Nov. 10.—A young Australian soldier, wounded while serving as one of the crew in a "tank," has given the world the first real story of what happens when this newest engine of war goes into action. His diary of a week's work in an armored juggernaut follows.

"Monday.—Cut for the first time. Strange sensation. Bullets rained like hail on a munitioned roof. Suddenly gave a terrible lurch. Lookout said we were astride an enemy trench. "Give 'em hell" was the order. We said, "The frightened Germans ran like rabbits but were shot down in bunches. Machine guns started vicious rattle on our side. Not the least impression. Moved on and caught another German detachment. Cut their ranks to ribbons. Prisoners very curious, stared at wide-eyed. First day's experience not pleasant. "Tank" sickness is as bad as sea sickness.

"Tuesday.—Off for a cruise. Pepper began at once. Thought the old tank was going to drop in the river. Bullets. Silly blunders thought they could rush the tank like a fort. We fired at them point blank. We spat them venomously. The blasted old thing gave a lurch. I thought it was goodbye to earth. It was only some German dead and wounded we had killed into. Rain of bullets sounded like hundreds of rivets being driven into the tank's hide. We got to like the regular rhythm of it. Heavier screaming on our keyboard. Machine gun at it. There was a tremendous bang along about this time. Whole party of us were done for. Only some unwounded obstacle along an enemy parapet. Some Hun tried the machine gun. Their rushing days are over.

"Wednesday.—Early start. Roughest yet. Waves of fire seemed to break over us. Party of Germans came to meet us outside the trenches. Thought it was the mayor and village notables coming to give us a warm welcome. Mistaken. They let fly with machine guns. Then they tried boarding tactics. We laughed. Tank reception party dispersed in cloud of smoke. Only remaining member, fat old gentleman, threw himself down before us with many signs of submission.

"Thursday.—Passed down village street of wrecked houses. Huns rushed out of cellars and dug outs. One blighter rushed at us with clubbed rifle. Made terrible swipe at tank. Hurt himself more than us. Had nice joy ride after a day of fleeing Germans. All fat men. Usual shower of bullets. Got right across a trench. Enemy tried to run but couldn't. Threw up sponge. One cheeky chap said he didn't think it was fair to use such fighting machines. We asked him if he thought we ought to get the Kaiser's permission to use the tanks. Didn't see the joke. Took about 200 prisoners. Killed and wounded as many more. Tired out.

"Saturday.—Out before breakfast. Terrible crash first thing. Thought we had encountered wandering world. Weathered storm. Rare sport. Enemy preparing for surprise attack. Our surprise came first. We waddled into their ambush. Never saw men go frightened. Only few chaps stayed behind. Went snorting after them wherever we could find them. Later strong detachment tried to make their way back. We lined up across road, gave them a couple of days' time they tried to run we ripped their ranks to bits. They finally gave up.

"Sunday.—Frightening Germans continued. Loaded our tank as you might ramp out music from a hurdy-gurdy. Fritz got fits. No fight left in him. Prisoners scared to death. Some of them acted as though they believed we used our tanks for making sausages out of prisoners."

DELANAV

Delavan, Nov. 9.—Mrs. W. G. Dukelow died Wednesday, Nov. 8, at 10:30 p. m., at the Rice sanitarium, after submitting to an operation for tumor cancer in the afternoon. The patient had regained consciousness from the anesthetic and was able to speak a few words of farewell to her husband before passing away. Mrs. Dukelow was fifty-seven years of age and leaves to mourn her untimely death, her husband and one son, Hubert, 18 years of age. The funeral will be held from the home on South Fourth street Friday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. F. W. North officiated. Burial will take place in Spring Grove cemetery.

WILSON'S ELECTION.

With the announcement that California had given its electoral vote for Wilson came the final outcome of the telegraph wires from the Associated Press announcing his re-election as president. It had been a long, drawn-out contest, and it was to be believed the morning dispatches it has not ended with the flash. The managers of the Hughes campaign announce that they will demand an investigation into the vote of North Dakota, New Mexico and California, evidently in the hope that they may find some error which will turn the tide in favor of their candidate.

One of the features not to be overlooked in the contest was the vote of "border" states, the districts which were most seriously affected by the president's Mexican policy. This gave him loyal support, and while their electoral votes were small, they helped swell the total and make his election possible. After all the hue and cry against the tactics used by the government, the demand for protection and the criticism of the administration's methods, this vote is remarkable.

Perhaps it may be explained by the fact that these same states at the present time are warring for from the government "pays" that has been shown upon them by the presence of the organized militia within their borders. It was a clever political move that of ordering out of the national guard regiments of the various states, keeping the northern troops there for months, and its result is demonstrated, even though, we are as much at war with Mexico as ever, by the election returns from these states.

However, one fact remains. If Wilson is to be president again for four years more it is up to every loyal American citizen to withhold his personal prejudice on the policies to be followed for the general good of the nation as a whole. Our President is our President, be it Wilson or Hughes, and we, as loyal citizens, should stand behind the administration to the best of our individual ability.

A LESSON IN PUBLICITY.

One of the most striking results of the present election, when you study down results, is the direct advertising and what it accomplished. The Wall Street Journal summarizes the situation very clearly when it says that even with the closest presidential election since the Hayes-Tilden fight of 1876, there is one important lesson to be drawn from the campaign now concluded, for good or evil. It is that the old methods of approaching the voter and of educating him in the real issues before him have failed. The greatest successes for Mr. Hughes were made where newspaper publicity had placed the true issues squarely before the American voter, who is increasingly doing his own thinking.

(Circular letters to voters and their way into the waste paper basket. There are so many of them that they fall to get themselves read. A crowd of one thousand people may listen with great attention or prolonged applause, as the case may be, to a presidential candidate. How many of them will ever get to deliver? There are like the speakers in a party convention, who make so much approving noise that their favorite speaker cannot make his or her heard for half an hour. But the thoughtful rest of us want to hear what he has to say. Ten seconds will tell us what a noisy gallery without votes thinks (if it thinks it thinks) and the result is not worth knowing.

But this campaign has developed the straightforward appeal to the intelligence of the silent voter, who is naturally an assiduous reader of the newspapers. Wherever the facts have been laid before him he has swung in the direction of sound protection, international honor, and a state of peace not to be secured by harping something which should be more precious than his life. Wherever the old methods prevailed there has been the herding of sheep into a pen which the Southern states, to say nothing of those in the Southwest, so strikingly exhibit.

Here is one of the expensive lessons of democracy. It learns by its own mistakes, and its charter to freedom, spiritual and moral, is that it shall make those mistakes. If there is one thing the election has said which should sink into all men's minds, it is that we should approach the voter—not the mob—by the most modern methods of publicity.

If the election is nothing else, it is the best lesson the demonstration of newspaper efficiency. Even the fact that newspapers like the New York Times and The World had explanatory editorials, when they supposed the election of Mr. Hughes was assured, cannot blind thinking people to the fact. Knowing they might face disaster, these papers did so intelligently, and there is no room for question that a public not reached by the largest torchlight procession under moon and stars understands their sincerity and desire for public service.

LITERARY CLUB WORK.

The average citizen feels rather dumfounded as he looks over the ambitious program that his wife may be studying in some literary club. As he notes the papers she will hear or write on Browning, Tennyson, Carlyle, or the development of poetry and drama, he feels in very deep water. It strikes him that a great many of our women are living in a sphere of thought quite foreign to the business life of every day.

The people who write papers for such clubs get a really valuable training. It is quite a mental exercise to get up an interesting essay for club purposes. It teaches logical arrangement of facts and ideas and helps one distinguish what is real and vital from what has no particular significance.

the result of other people's study, this depends on the individual. With some persons the real motive is probably the cup of tea and social converse after the lecturer has ceased and the audience wakes up.

With others, the better familiarity with the world's great thinkers becomes infinitely valuable. These volumes, which become dusty in so many libraries, contain thoughts that are an anchor to the heart in times of storm. The literary club program may be the path through which many a seeker for broader living has found answers to the riddles of the universe.

There is a growing tendency among these clubs to take up problems of social service. This seems really more worth while than any mere search for facts about Russia or China. The modern study of problems like pauperism, unemployment, sanitation, education, opens up a world of new ideas. It is by such study that scientific methods of advance become popularized, and that community leadership is created.

POLITICAL RESULTS.
Pessimists sometimes argue that the American people are not capable of self-government. As one thinks of the helpless way in which our people remain satisfied with pork-fed politics, there is some little basis for such discouragement. But when you compare our political habits with those of other peoples, there are many ways in which the American shines. The way he takes political defeat is one of them.

In South American countries the beaten element get out with guns and knives. In Europe they go to the opposite extreme. In many of those countries the liberal party would secure an overwhelming majority could the one man one vote principle prevail. The people submissively accept the decree handed out to them by kings and lords as a child takes a whipping. They don't even care or dare to discuss it.

Midway between these two extremes stands the American political custom. The vanquished are perfectly free to pour out all the bitterness of their souls. But they rarely do it. As Congressman Gardner once remarked in congress: "I never lick my sore paws in public." It was a historic remark, and one that represents very faithfully our political manners. As to guns and knives like the other side of the Gulf of Mexico, the man who resorts to them is promptly locked up in a lunatic asylum. It is real

PLANS NEW SAWMILL IN NORTHERN PART OF STATE.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Antigo, Wis., Nov. 10.—Charles Fish, of Elcho, proposes to build a huge saw mill here. The mill will have a capacity of from seven to eight million feet annually and employ from seventy-five to one hundred men. Fish, who is perhaps the largest individual operator in the lumbering business, now has saw mills at Elcho and Birmahwood.

After enthusiastically applauding the efforts of carpenters, plumbers and masons to get shorter hours and higher pay, every one turns around and kicks at the high rent that the landlord charges to make up the difference.

After an awkward motorist has stepped on his accelerator a few times when he meant to put down his brake he begins to realize the advantages of the wheelbarrow as a means of transportation.

Seeing how tangled up the average voter gets over a look and complicated ballot, the politician smilingly remarks "I should worry."

It is still impossible to run a football team without having a few college buildings and professors around as an incidental necessity.

Many voters show their patriotic desire to exercise the suffrage by offering to vote if some candidate will give them an automobile ride.

PARENTS MEET WITH TEACHERS TONIGHT

First of Series of Meetings Arranged For This Evening at the High School.

This evening at the high school will be held the first of a series of parents' teachers' meetings, which continues throughout the year. The meeting is in the nature of an informal gathering at which the parents of the high school students will have an opportunity to become acquainted with the teachers under whom their children are studying, and thus establish that personal relationship which is recognized to be so essential to proper co-operation between the school and the home in the moulding of the child's character.

The meeting this evening has been planned for two groups of high school parents who are unable to devote an entire evening to the affair may come for either part. The first part of the evening, from seven until eight, will be given to the parents of the girls. All of the high school teachers will be in their rooms during this period to meet the parents. Principal Shearman, most anxious to have a large number of parents attend for this part of the program, as he is an ardent supporter of the modern plan of establishing a strong personal bond between the teacher and the parent.

From eight o'clock on, there will be a program of talks and music in the assembly room for all. The school board meets this evening, and the members will be called upon to give formal talks on various problems of immediate importance in the Janesville school system. Superintendent H. H. Faust will also talk. Principal Shearman will endeavor to acquaint the parents of the new students in particular with the work of the high school, with its outside activities, their value and the opportunities offered in a high school education for those who will make the best of them. In short, his talk will be a general survey of the school and all that it affords.

The high school orchestra of about twenty pieces will play; the Girls' Glee club of fifty voices and the Boys' Glee club of forty voices will sing under the direction of Miss Sewell, supervisor of music in the Janesville schools.

Free discussion at any time during the program is invited. Officials hope to make the affair a sort of "open forum" so that each individual may bring up any question that may be worrying him and find out the way and wherefore of it all.

The parents' teachers' meeting is a recognized institution in all progressive school systems. For the past four years it has been a regular part of the yearly work in Janesville, and in the past has met with great success. It has been the custom for the meeting to introduce to the various teachers under whom they are studying at the time.

OBITUARY.

Edward J. Turner.
The funeral of Edward J. Turner, who died in San Diego on October 31st, was held this afternoon from the Ashcraft undertaking parlors at two o'clock. Dr. Lapp of the Baptist church conducted the services to the home of the deceased in Oak Hill cemetery. The pallbearers were David Clark, Robert Clark, John Aris, William Menzies, I. D. Crosby and Frank Mills of Greenfield, Iowa.

Robert A. Abell.
Robert A. Abell died at Mercy hospital early this morning after an illness of only a few days. He was in his eighty-seventh year. He lived in Janesville from March, 1892 until 1903. At that time he went to live with his children in Chicago and Washington. For the last year his home has been with his daughter, Mrs. C. P. Stacy, at 612 St. Lawrence avenue. His wife, who died in this city in 1907, was a sister of the late Mrs. F. F. Lewis.

The funeral service will be held at 4:00 p. m. Saturday in the chapel in Oak Hill cemetery.

G. A. R. Ladies: Meeting tonight in the Caledonia hall. After the meeting they will be entertained by Mrs. Gibbs and Mrs. Williams.

FATHER AND SON DAY OBSERVED IN MILWAUKEE.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 10.—"Father and Son Day" was observed here today by twenty-five dinners given in various parts of the city at which fathers and sons assembled. The movement has for its object the creation of confidence and comradeship between fathers and sons, to the end that good may be wrought for both.

BELIEVE MANITOWOC WRECK CAUSED BY SAME PERSON AS ONE AT MOLINE, ILLINOIS.

Manitowoc, Wis., Nov. 10.—Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and Northwestern railroad detectives are working together today in the belief that when they have caught the man who wrecked train 111, Ashland limited, on the Northwestern several weeks ago, they will have the man who deliberately wrecked the Southwestern limited on the Milwaukee, at Moline, Ill., last Friday, when one man was killed and two others badly injured.

The fact that both trains were wrecked by means of the switch being open, indicates that the same party may have been responsible for both wrecks. A reward of $1,000 is offered for the capture of the man who wrecked the Northwestern train.

Rock Prairie: Regular services may be expected at the Rock Prairie United Presbyterian church next Sunday, Nov. 12th.

The Philothea Class of St. Peter's English Lutheran church entertained last evening at the home of Mrs. E. O. Hoffmeister. Games and music were indulged in and light refreshments were served. Rev. and Mrs. Hoffmeister were as tokens of appreciation for their kindness and interest in the members of the class. All reported a good time.

OPERATOR MAY DIE; MANY HURT IN MOVIE

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 10.—Glenn Wilson, 15, movie operator at a local theatre, was perhaps fatally burned and several persons trampled last night in a panic which followed an explosion of a film. The picture had just started when the film became ignited. The young operator pulled open the case which held the reel and threw it out of a trap door in his cage, leading to the street.

In the meantime flames had filled the little coop, and the building caught fire. Wilson's clothing began to burn. Crying for help, he threw open the door and started for a nearby hospital. A rush of flames and smoke followed him. Approaching the hospital Wilson was seen by physicians, who met him and tore his clothing from him. His head, face, neck, back and arms are terribly burned. Doctors hope, but have no hopes of his recovery. During the panic in the theatre, clothing was torn and persons jammed and trampled, but no one was seriously injured. It was reported today.

Quincy, Ill., Mo., Nov. 10.—St. Louis and Quincy detectives have been called to Hannibal, Mo., to help run down the negro who early Wednesday entered two homes in Hannibal, cut one girl's throat, inflicting a serious wound, and attempted to kill another in a similar manner.

MAJESTIC OPENS NEW THEATRE

Public is Given First View of the New Home of This Playhouse.

The majestic opened their new theatre to the public yesterday and justified all their promises for a beautiful playhouse. In spite of the large audience the ventilation was noticeably good. A very pretty picture was shown, featuring Harold Lockwood and May Allison. The music was appropriate at all times.

The front of the theatre presented a decided change from the front usually seen at this location in past months. No large obnoxious posters marred the appearance. The inside lobby is now large and inviting. The lighting effect is tasteful and attractive. The management deserves credit for the change wrought in this theatre.

BOY SCOUT BENEFIT AT OLD MAJESTIC

Scouts of Troop Four Raising Funds Today for Equipment.

Seven big reels of pictures and songs by Janesville's favorite, Robert S. Bailey, make up the program of the Troop 4 benefit given by the Boy Scouts today at the old Majestic. The scouts are endeavoring to raise funds to complete their equipment and to furnish a club room. They deserve the support of everybody.

MEET H. KOOTCHIE JR. BOYS, SHE'S NEW

Abas, Salome, likewise the sensuous Egyptian and the fascinating, winged hula-hula maid, each of whom it seems, took a lesson from Miss Hootchie-Kootchie—America is to have a new stage dancer.

Meuchlorie or geometrical dancing is its label and Mme. Valentine de Saint Point is its exponent. She is now enroute to New York on the Monarch from Barcelona, Spain. The dancing which will be introduced has a "cerebral quality," which is explained thusly.

While music, painting and sculpture have changed in form and method, becoming more "cerebral" instead of merely emotional, dancing has remained an art which appeals through the eye to the sense alone. In the new geometrical dancing all of the elements which fill the house when Mary Garden dances Salome are retained and artists are introduced giving the movements meanings.

The dances are staged with Mme. de Saint Point's own poems set to music by Debussy, Ravel and other composers. In some the garb is very light, in one, however, a coat of mail, with only slits for the eyes is worn.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

A fast-moving story of romance and adventure laid in picturesque South Sea Islands, has been put to work by Director Otto Turner. Geo. Walsh, star of "The Beast," has the leading role. Playing opposite him will be Laura Dean, who has just signed as a William Fox actress. Miss Dean was in vaudeville and stock for four years and came to the silent drama in 1912. Anna Luther is cast for a part in the picture. Others in the cast are Henschel Mayall, William Buss, William Clifford, Samuel Seartles, Willard Louis and Hector Sarno.

WILLIAM RUSSELL REALIZES AMBITION.

William Russell, the handsome star, has a red blanket which was given to him by an old Indian chief many years ago when he visited a reservation. He has always cherished it and hopes for a day when he could wear it in a real Indian role. His ambition has been realized. He is now at work in one of the strongest dramas in which he has ever played, "Lone Star," a story of a young Indian who becomes a physician. The contrast between the white man's much-vaunted civilization and the Indian's splendid intuition adds intense value to the drama. It promises to be William Russell's best.

CLEO MADISON TO HEAD OWN COMPANY.

Although all the details are not finally settled, it is now pretty certain that Cleo Madison will head her own company and be financially interested in it. Miss Madison has for some years been one of the most popular stars with the Universal company.

Interested with her are Isidore Bernstein, who was one time western manager of the big "U," and F. N. Archibald, a retired merchant of Boston.

Miss Madison states that Mr. Bernstein will come to Los Angeles when the financing of the production has been completed, and with his arrival final plans for production will be completed and announced.

Irene Howley, who is co-starred with William Nigh in "Life's Shadows," a forthcoming production, is one of the first women to use a Roadplane, the new scooter which some folks call an auto skate. Miss Howley has not got up the courage to operate the machine on Broadway, and does her speeding in that dear Staten Island, where she has a little farm.

William Farnum, screen favorite of millions, is working now in a "straight" picture, his first of that type in many months. Chilly weather is the theme of this new photoplay—one which proves still again the versatility and the polish of Farnum's acting.

Ora-Cheen.

She is one of the most recent additions to the long list of beauties.

The Daily Novelette

BRRR-R.
(From "Selected Stories for August Reading," compiled by Blaisdell Ditts.)
The members of the Poor Little Rich Men's Club sat drowsily watching the drifts of snow sweeping up the avenue and listening to the north wind blowing immodestly in the naked branches.

"The coldest winter I ever knew," observed Hannibal Fern, and "was the winter when the electricity in telephone wires froze, and when the thaw came all the telephones were gabbling away as hard as they could gabble for two hours."

Everybody yawned and sent for another drink, and Harvey Wiesbaden-Baden remarked, "Coldest winter I can think of was when the gas in the pipes froze so hard people cut it out in long sticks and made torches of 'em."

Everybody yawned and sent for more drinks, and presently Lionel Stumpy, cutting a button off his vest and dropping it out the window to a shivering beggar, contributed, "I never knew a colder winter than the one when I saw a policeman running to kick a laborer."

Everybody yawned twice, and ordered drinks.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, Nov. 10.—Mrs. Martin Rinn died Wednesday evening at the home on Milwaukee street after a long illness. She had been a resident of this city for many years.

Among the many reports of election received here by wire, Lawrence Paust has been as accurate as any with his high powered wireless. Messages are received at different intervals and Paust is busy getting out bulletins.

The normal football team is at Plattville today for their last conference game and a hard contest is expected. Milwaukee defeated both these teams by about the same score, one by 13 to 3 and the other 14 to 0.

Chris Zeigler, Will Ludtke and Leo Sprengle have gone to northern Wisconsin to hunt deer.

F. R. Bloodgood spent yesterday afternoon at Palmyra.

The Wayne Stevens home on White-water street has been purchased by Ed. Sweeney.

Will Kierman is spending a few days near Kenosha, where he has a bridge gang at work on a cement bridge.

Fred Kraff spent Thursday in Janesville.

Brodhead News

Brodhead, Nov. 10.—Those who went to Janesville Thursday to attend the Sunday school convention are: Mrs. A. S. Moore and Miss Moore, Mrs. F. Stache, Mrs. George B. Broughton, Miss Zell Barnes, Miss Carolyn Spaulding, Mrs. A. A. Ten Eyck and Mrs. C. Blunt.

Walter Hoffmaster of Kinney, Kansas, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Crosby and departed for his home on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Spencer of San Diego, California, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wright and departed Thursday for their home.

Mrs. A. Bisle of Monroe, came Thursday to visit her daughter, Mrs. H. Dedrick, for a few days.

Starts TOMORROW

TOMORROW--for the first time--you may see the greatest and most sensational of all motion pictures—a spectacular chapter-play of the Great North Woods—"A Lass of the Lumberlands." This stupendous production is presented by the Signal Film Corporation. It features the fearless film star, Helen Holmes. It has a setting and story absolutely new and unique in motion pictures. It will take you to the virgin Northwest—the land of the great sequoias, cedars and pines. You will see the tremendous forests—the primal life of the logging camps—pictured in all their stupendous majesty. You will be introduced to the thrills and perils of the life in God's own country.

This startling motion picture production is in fifteen chapters. A new chapter will be presented each week. "A Lass of the Lumberlands" is a story of profound heart-interest—a story which relates the struggles of a lone girl, fighting single-handed against that gigantic octopus—the Lumber Trust. It depicts in vivid scenes the dramatic episodes of every-day life in the Great Northwest. It portrays the dangers that confront the heroine, Helen Holmes. It reveals thrills such as you have never seen before. Love and adventure, plots and counterplots, are sketched for you as they are seen on Life's canvas in the Great Outdoors.

HELEN HOLMES

The Fearless Film Star in

A LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS

A Spectacular Motion Picture
Chapter-Play of the North Woods

Leading theatres everywhere will show this tremendous motion picture spectacle—"A Lass of the Lumberlands" in fifteen chapters—a new chapter every week. Ask the manager of your theatre when it will be shown. Don't miss this opportunity to see daring, dashing Helen Holmes in her greatest success—"A Lass of the Lumberlands." An all-star cast supports her. Many of the scenes are more spectacular than anything ever before shown in motion pictures. This thrilling story is more fascinating than an interesting book—you can see the scenes portrayed in genuine reality on the screen of your favorite motion picture theatre. The first chapter of "A Lass of the Lumberlands" begins today. See it! If your theatre is not listed here, ask the manager when "A Lass of the Lumberlands" will be shown.

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Fourth Quarter. Lesson VII. Romans XIV. 13, XX-3; November 12, 1916.

WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY. As in a mirror, in the Epistle to the Romans we see a faithful reflection of one Apostolic church. The light is somewhat disappointing. Where is the unity of the spirit and the bond of peace? The Church is rent into factions. The converts from Judaism, taught from childhood to consider the injunctions and prohibitions of the ceremonial law as of Divine origin and authority, deem them still obligatory. They observe them with an intense scrupulosity. They look upon those who do not obey them as no Christians at all. They are inevitably censorious and predisposed to judge.

On the other hand, the Gentile converts, never having been in bondage to the ceremonial law, knowing nothing of its arbitrary distinctions as to days, weeks, etc., were inclined to resent any attempt to rivet the Mosaic ritual upon them, and to look with contempt upon their brethren who wore these fetters so complacently.

Doctrinally, the purpose of the Epistle to the Romans is to show that Christianity is the legitimate fruitage of Judaism; that there is as little room for strife between Christianity and Judaism as between the fruit and the blossom. It is the blossom's destiny to fade and fall that the fruit may come to perfection. A fight for Judaism is a fight for a blossom—fair and fragrant, it is true, but a blossom still. Judaism is necessarily evanescent. Practically, Paul's purpose in writing is to outline for the Church at Rome those principles and methods of procedure which will most surely conduce to peace and unity. This is the first and as yet unsurpassed essay at Ecumenical Theology.

Paul unequivocally asserts that what might be called the liberal party is in the right. He enrolls himself with it, when he says: "We, then, that are strong." But he proceeds to give certain maxims adapted to immediate use. First, as the tenets of the Judaic-Christian faction relate to matters comparatively indifferent, they are to be received with cordial courtesy and fellowship. Again, the censorious disposition is to be steadily repressed. There is only one Lord and Judge of the conscience. But if anybody is bent on judging, let him turn his judicial spirit upon himself, and see that he does not grieve his brother by a selfish, haughty, and ostentatious use of his liberty of conscience, which he enjoys. It is possible in this way to cause the apostasy of a novice in religion, and thus undo the work of God in his regeneration. If one believes himself free in these indifferent matters, let him keep it to himself. Parading his advanced opinions may injure his brother. The use of liberty is right, but there is a manner of using it which brings condemnation.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN. This inspired casuistry is of perpetual application. The question of days and meats which caused such a fusillade of debate in the Church at Rome, is now a matter of antiquarian research. But each succeeding era in the Church has its internecine strife over matters intrinsically indifferent.

Pious people once contended over broad-brimmed hats, shad-belly coats, flowerless poke-bonnets, and separate sittings on cushionless seats. We smile at the memory. But the contest was a very real one to the contestants. And spiritual life was affected for weal or woe as these Pauline principles were heeded or not.

We have a contrary of opinion in the Church today that in themselves are comparatively unimportant. It will not do for us to say, especially to inquiring young people, "You must decide such matters for yourself." That is shirking and unmanly. On the other hand, it will not do for the Church to answer questions of casuistry categorically. The Church is not the conscience of the individual.

What shall we do, then? An appeal to the Bible is always wise and safe. Put before the mind of the inquirer the Pauline principles of ethics as contained in the fourteenth chapter of Romans. They are simple, few, easily comprehended, universally applicable, and of Divine authority. In matters which are the subject of explicit command in the Word of God the conscience has no vocation whatsoever. The question of doing or not doing is not debatable. Obedience is indispensable. All matters upon which the salvation of the soul directly depends are subject of explicit revelation. Consequently the sphere of the conscience is largely, if not altogether, in matters comparatively indifferent. In these indifferent matters the Christian, confident of his liberty, might, as far as he himself is concerned, take any course he pleased. But in the circle of his influence there is certainly some friend not so free as himself who would be influenced prejudicially by the full exercise of his freedom. The principles of love and self-denial call upon him, with certain limits, to give up his liberty. Again the Christian is to avoid a course which would probably give ground for criticism. He must not only be good but seem good. He must avoid the appearance of evil, lest his good be evil spoken of.

But such a course as is demanded only in the case of a brother who is simple and sincere, it is to be maintained with a view to finally extricating him from his rank scruples; for "the conscience is to be won, not conquered." He is to be cured of his scruples, too, not by being induced to violate them while they remain; for he that discerneth and putteth a difference between meats, is condemned if he eat.

In every community, however, there are those who take their petty whims and notions and seek to foist them upon the consciences of others. Nov. 12, 1916, Hebrews XI 32-40: XII. 1-4.

HOW TO BE STRONG. Weakness enters the world already defeated. It is contemptible, superlatively so. Almost worse than to be bad is to be weak for badness is sometimes convertible into something better, but weakness seems to defy such conversion. No writer in Sacred Scripture protests more vehemently against weakness or exerts with more animated fervor to the cultivation of strength than St. Paul. His epistles so vividly reproduce the contests of the apostle that one almost feels the apostle must have sat in the marble apse and watched the spirited contests. He uses the very language of the "coach." "Box a good bout!" "Take the prize!" Hebrew sounds like another epistle of St. Paul in this particular. "A cloud of witnesses." "Strip for the race!" "Weights off!" "Run with persevering continuance!" Jesus is both "starter" and judge. No paltry olive, laurel, pine or parsley wreath is the reward, but a crown of righteousness, incorruptible, fadeless, imperishable. It is well worth the discipline demanded. The substance of the reward, of which the "crown" is the figure, is the evolution of moral qualities in the soul. It is fixity of character in the likeness of Jesus.

PHILIPP TAKES REST; HEALTH IS IMPAIRED BY HARD CAMPAIGN

Governor Goes Duck Hunting for a Week With Lawrence Whittet. —To Make Many New Appointments.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 10.—Governor E. L. Philipp, who is not in good health and may have to submit to another operation, now that the reaction of his strenuous speaking tour is over, left yesterday for a rest which he hopes will recuperate him for the big tasks of the next two years.

He was accompanied on a duck hunting trip by Lawrence C. Whittet, speaker of the assembly and state accountant. They declared that their whereabouts for a week will be kept secret.

Appointments to be made by Governor Philipp in his next term will reorganize nearly all state departments. These are the most important appointments he will be called upon to make.

Railroad Commissioner—Successor to Henry W. Trumbower, whose term expires February, 1917, he having been named to fill the unexpired term of Harold Erickson. Salary, $5,000.

J. D. Beck, whose term expires June 30, 1917. Salary, $5,000. The new appointment will give the governor control of the industrial commission. G. F. Hambrecht being his other appointee.

Tax Commission—Successor to T. Lyons, whose term expires May 1917. Salary, $5,000. The appointment will give the governor control of the tax commission, Carroll Atwood being his other appointee.

Dairy Commission—Successor to George J. Weigle, whose term expires February, 1917. Mr. Weigle is the governor's appointee, and he probably will be reappointed. Salary, $3,000.

Highway Commission—Successor to J. H. Van Doren, Birmanwood, a progressive. No salary.

State Board of Control—Successor to Katherine R. Williams, whose term expires April, 1917, and W. B. Grabner, whose term expires April, 1918. Salaries, $2,500. Appointments will give the governor control of the board.

Board of Health—Successors to H. A. Meilke, whose term expires February, 1917, and W. F. White, president of the board, whose term expires February, 1918. No salary. Appointment will give the governor control of the board.

Insurance Commission—Successor to M. J. Cleary, the governor's appointee. Salary, $3,000.

Banking Commissioner—Successor to A. E. Kuolt, whose term expires May, 1918. Salary, $5,000.

Civil Service Commission—Successor to Otto Gaffron, whose term expires June, 1917. It has been found that P. A. Roberts, who was a McGovern appointee, was not confirmed by the senate at the time he was named. If the governor appoints his successor the whole commission will be composed of Philipp appointees. Salary $10 per day, not to exceed $500 per annum.

Superintendent of Public Property—Successor to M. P. Blumenfeld, Philipp appointee. Salary, $3,000.

Superintendent of Oil Inspection—Successor to E. N. Moran, Philipp appointee. Salary, $2,000.

Board of University Regents—Successor to Mrs. Florence Buckstaff, Oshkosh; Orlando E. Clark, Appleton; Theodore M. Hammond, Milwaukee; G. D. Jones, Wausau; A. P. Nelson, Grantsburg; F. W. A. Notz, Milwaukee.

Board of Normal Regents—Successors to Mrs. Theodora Youmans, Waukesha; Clough Gates, Superior; Theodore Kronshagen, Jr., Milwaukee; Duncan McGroarty, Platteville.

Governor Philipp gamely campaigned the state for the past five weeks against advice of physicians and friends and with great physical discomfort to himself, and friends hope that fears of another hospital siege as a result of his operation last June are not well founded.

GROCERY PRICES HOLD LEVEL DURING ELECTION

In all the excitement of election days and in the gloom or joy over the outcome, Janesville householders are relieved to know that the excitement has not boosted food prices materially.

Flour, sugar, potatoes and many other staples which have been subjected to such astounding advances in the last two months, are still the same.

Local markets have for the last week been offering a line of fresh head and leaf cauliflower, cabbage, wax beans, radishes, cucumbers, all as good if not better than during the summer months, and at a very reasonable price. So far there has been no advance in these articles in spite of the approach of winter and the lengthening of the distances of transportation. Today spinach is offered at fifteen cents a pound; grapefruit, some at four for a quarter, and larger ones at ten cents straight.

As a means of disposing of your real estate, the little want ads are sure winners.

SEE MISMANAGEMENT IN G. O. P. CAMPAIGN REASON OF DEFEAT

Charged That National Committee Refused Funds to Trans-Mississippi States With Progressive Tendencies.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Chicago, Nov. 10.—The Chicago Tribune today attempts to analyze the reason for Hughes' defeat, and places the blame on the republican campaign managers who, it is claimed, failed to appreciate the importance of the trans-Mississippi states which had progressive leanings. It says:

"As the confidence of the republican managers has waned there has been a good deal of discussion at their headquarters of the question of 'how it all happened.' 'Inside' Mismanagement."

"That there was woeful mismanagement in the republican campaign is conceded by those who were 'on the inside' of the Hughes organization. Although George W. Perkins and a few other progressive leaders were associated with Mr. Wilcox in directing the campaign and although Murray Crane, Penrose, and other Old Guardsmen were banished from headquarters, the reactionary republicans were allowed to gain control of the national committee's money bag."

"The consequence was that money was furnished in ample quantities to finance the organization in states controlled by the old line republicans, but in those states in which the former progressives and progressive republicans were in control the leaders were compelled to get along without financial assistance from the national committee. Time and again the managers of the western campaign begged for sufficient funds to finance organization and an educational campaign in the trans-Mississippi states in which it was apparent that the democrats were making dangerous inroads upon republican strength."

"Because, however, the Old Guard, in control of the war chest, wanted to employ the funds in states in which its friends were to be benefited, the trans-Mississippi states, where the progressive element was in the ascendant, were compelled to go begging. This engendered much animosity along progressives and hindered the complete coalition of the factions."

"At the same time there were progressive leaders who sulked throughout the campaign and while not supporting Wilson refused to actively go into the campaign for Hughes. Toward the end of the campaign it became apparent that in the states west of the Mississippi the republicans had not been the complete realignment of the factions of the old party that had been expected after Roosevelt refused the progressive nomination and came out for Hughes."

"In Kansas, where Gov. Capper was preaching pacifism, and thereby furthering the 'kept us out of war' democratic propaganda, the republican managers, out of deference to Capper, made an attempt to counteract the president's peace at any price preachments with an educational campaign to impress the people with the danger of this gospel of fear."

"In several states like Ohio the republican managers were deterred from making a campaign against the Adamsson law by the fact that one or more republican congressmen in those states, candidates for re-election, voted for the measure."

"Roosevelt Men Angry."
"The treatment of Roosevelt by the republican managers, also injured Hughes and further angered the progressives. After Roosevelt had been invited to speak at Cincinnati, National Committeeman Hyndricka, demanded and obtained the cancellation of the engagement. He said that the appearance of Roosevelt in that city would anger the German-Americans and he did not allow the colonel to deliver a single speech in Ohio during the campaign."

"Roosevelt was not allowed to speak in Wisconsin, California, and several other states in which the republican managers deemed his appearance inadvisable. This action still further angered the progressives of California who had not been mollified since the development of the friction between Hughes and Johnson during the republican candidate's first western trip."

"Pacific Tour Fiasco."
"Mr. Hughes' journey to the Pacific states was mismanaged, there being no leader with the party who knew political conditions sufficiently to prevent friction between the two factions. In Washington, the attitude of the managers of the Hughes party was such that the progressives were rendered particularly indignant. Senator Poindexter, a former progressive, and candidate for re-election, was not allowed to travel on the Hughes train. It was not until toward the end of the campaign that Poindexter was induced to work actively for Hughes."

COLD WAVE COMING;
DUE HERE TONIGHT

Approaching Wisconsin is a west-ern storm, which will bring a cold rain and much lower temperature by tonight, and probably snow tomorrow, the weather bureau predicted last night. The freezing point may be reached. A strong northwest wind also is predicted for tomorrow.

GIBBONS-DILLON BATTLE VICTOR MAY MEET DACEY

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 10.—After Mike Gibbons and Jack Dillon got through pummeling each other tonight and after the newspapers have decided that one of them has triumphed over the other, it is just probable that some bright young man will come along and offer one of the pair a chance to go to Australia and meet the Australian crack, Les Dacey.

In the bout tonight a recognized world's light heavyweight champion and a man who has as much right to claim the middleweight championship as any one will be getting together. Jack Dillon has successfully knocked out the aspirations of most challenges of his ability, and Gibbons has spent many years doing precisely the same thing.

Gibbons is a legitimate middleweight, something that Dillon is not and hasn't been for a number of years. From the bout can be in no way twisted into a scrap for middleweight title. However, Les Dacey is declaring himself a middleweight, but is taking on the light heavies as fast as they come. He announces with much show of bravado that he wants a crack at Dillon, so it makes little difference who walks away with the long end of the newspaper score tonight.

Dillon trained down to 165 pounds in order to get the elusive Gibbons into a ring, and Gibbons is expected to be somewhere around 155.

Pine Bodie, the noted fence buster of the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league, may not join Connie Mack's Athletics next year. He is holding out for a fat contract and wants nearly twice as much as Connie is willing to pay him. Unless Mack comes across with the money, said Bodie recently, "I will not play with his club."

TIGER-CRIMSON CLASSIC IN THE EAST TOMORROW

First of "Big Three" Games Scheduled at Cambridge Saturday. Tomorrow's football games:

Yale vs. Brown at New Haven. Harvard vs. Princeton at Cambridge. Cornell vs. Michigan at Ithaca. Army vs. Maine at West Point. Navy vs. North Carolina Aggies at Annapolis.

Columbia vs. Rochester at Hamilton. Pittsburgh vs. Washington and Jefferson at Pittsburgh.

Syracuse vs. Susquehanna at Syracuse.

Georgetown vs. West Virginia Wesleyan at Washington.

Lafayette vs. Albright at Easton. Pennsylvania vs. Dartmouth at Philadelphia.

Springfield vs. Tufts at Springfield, West.

Ohio State vs. Indiana at Columbus. Notre Dame vs. South Dakota at Vermillion.

Kansas vs. Washburn at Lawrence. Washington vs. Oregon Aggies at Seattle.

Washington State vs. Oregon at Seattle.

Northwestern vs. Iowa at Evanston. Kansas Aggies vs. Missouri at Manhattan.

When Harvard and Princeton bow their backs and start for each other tomorrow the three-cornered whirl for supremacy in the "big three" of the east will be on its three-legged way.

It will be the first tussle of the season among any of the three eleven which always are pointed to in arguments regarding the relative strength of eastern teams.

Both teams have been rather weak on defense this year, but Harvard, through Percy Houghton's work, has come to the front in this department.

Both are fairly strong on attack.

Last year Princeton was beaten, 19-0.

Sport Snap Shots MORRIS MILLER

The fight game in Australia is not what it is cracked up to be in the press notices sent to the United States. Harry Stone, the American lightweight now over there in 2 letter here states that the boxing game is dead because of the war and big houses are a thing of the past. Les Dacey is the only drawing card, and where he formerly drew from 20,000 to 30,000 people on each appearance he is lucky now to fight before a 10,000 house.

Unless Harry Pollock, manager of Freddie Welsh, is bluffing, the lightweight champion is in danger of being forced into a real contest. Matt Hinkel, Ohio promoter, wired Pollock recently asking for his terms for a Kilbane-Welsh fight and how far the champ would go. Pollock wired back asking for Hinkel's best offer and stated Welsh would go any number of rounds if the inducements were right. There are several towns in Ohio within easy riding distance of Cleveland where fifteen or twenty round battles to a decision are permissible, so such a meeting is more than possible.

It is said that Ray Caldwell will report to the Yankees again in the spring. If he does he will have to win his place on the team again by showing that he will be of real value to the club. Caldwell still is a fine pitcher, but unless he keeps in shape to pitch he is of no use to the team.

The Yankees and Robins are to play a three-game series at Ebbe's Field next spring just before the opening of the major league races. It also is possible that the Giants will arrange some games with Donovan's men. If the Yanks and Giants do not meet in the spring, they hope to battle in the autumn with the world's championship at the prize.

Larry Doyle, the former second baseman of the Giants, has gone to Jacksonville, Fla., to spend the winter. Larry is still carrying around a pair of crutches as the result of the broken leg he received in one of the games in Chicago.

President T. J. Hanlon of the Sioux City Western league club announces that he has "accepted the resignation" of Manager Harry Gaspar and that he will go to the big league for his successor to Gaspar. He says the former manager can remain with the team as a pitcher, but Gaspar, it is said, objects to that.

Commenting on Joseph J. Lannin's announced intention to sell the interest he has in the Buffalo International league club, a Boston writer says that one reason baseball has failed in Buffalo is that the sporting writers shove it into the background as to publicity, because they are tired of the boxing and racing as promoters and prefer to boost "their own games." Probably it was for a like reason that the Federal league got so much attention in Buffalo and the International league so little—the International wouldn't "come across."

Announcement from Chicago is that Pitcher Jim Scott has played his last game with the White Sox. Scott acted badly late in the season, for which he drew a suspension that was raised later. However, it seems to be still held against his record.

The Seattle club of the Northwest announces that it has closed a deal for transfer of Pitcher Bill Rose to Minneapolis of the Association. Rose started out like a world beater for Seattle last spring, but for some reason fell by the wayside before the season was half over.

Bills for legalizing boxing in the states of New Jersey and Delaware will be introduced in those legislatures when they assemble in January. A bill for a boxing commission also will be introduced at Harrisburg when the next Pennsylvania legislature meets.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Walters, Louella and Eddy Walters spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Walters' sister, Mrs. Hub Royce, Manchester.

Mrs. Will Stanley and niece, Miss Dorothy Snyder of Beloit, spent the week-end with Mrs. Stanley's sister, Miss Minnie Bartling.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Miller of Afton, have moved into the Herman Behling property, recently purchased by him from David Throne. The latter has purchased property on the Afton road within a few minutes of Beloit.

C. T. Smith is holding an auction sale of stock and tools on the former L. J. McCrea place today.

INSANITY ON INCREASE AT MANITOWOC, WISCONSIN.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Manitowoc, Wis., Nov. 10.—Statistics compiled here show that in the last five and a half months there have been a total of thirty-two insanity cases, a decided increase over the same period last year. A large percentage of the cases are from the rural districts of the country.

AFTON

Afton, Nov. 8.—The entertainment given by the teachers and pupils of the state graded school last Friday evening was a decided success. The program was good, the large audience appreciative and the receipts from the sale of the boxes gratifying. After the program the boxes were sold and supper was partaken of. The sale of the boxes netted $26.70. The money is to be used in buying the necessary equipment for the new domestic science course prescribed in the course of study for state graded schools. Tuesday afternoon a mothers' day was held at the schoolhouse to give practical demonstrations of the general work of the school, including the domestic science branch. Miss Jacobson of the training school at Janesville gave a talk. Fifteen mothers were present.

The regular meeting of Solid Rock Camp was held in Brinkman's hall Nov. 2. Among the important matters of business transacted it was voted to hold in addition to the regular monthly meeting, which is held the first Thursday afternoon of every month, a social meeting once a month in the evening at the homes of the members. The first evening meeting will be held Thursday evening, Nov. 16, at the home of Mrs. Henry Huebel, in Beloit, if the weather and roads permit. Otherwise the meeting will be held at the home of the Recorder, Miss Ella C. Uehling.

Mrs. Harry Eddy of Beloit spent Thursday in the village at the home of her uncle, Edward Hamel, and in attendance at the Royal Neighbor meeting.

Charles Griffen and Charles Kilmer will leave this week on a hunting trip in the northern part of the state. Mrs. Grace Harding entered the hospital at Janesville Sunday, where she underwent operations for appendicitis and other troubles Tuesday.

Mrs. Josephine Antisdel and daughter Olive of Janesville spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Otis.

NOT REAL GRANDEES GIRLS, BUT THEY'RE JUST GRAND, ARE THESE TWO ROMANCES

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 10.—Young handsome, vivacious, delightfully unmarried and owners of one cute little mustache each, Senors Enriquez Jim-inez and Martine Guzmann were today putting romance in the Romance language department of the Wisconsin University of Minnesota. They came all the way from chili-ridden Mexico to join the Gopher faculty. Young coeds promptly flocked to their classes.

TWELVE STORY ADDITION TO "WISCONSIN" HOTEL

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 10.—A twelve story addition to the Wisconsin Hotel will be erected if plans now being considered by directors of the hotel are carried out. The cost of the addition, it is estimated, would be between $200,000 and $300,000.

The grain trade is tolerably lively at the Corn Exchange.

There is still faith enough in both parties to bet on the result. It is very uncertain business and should be deprecated.

The Democrats for the past two or three days have been raising money for powder, but they have had no occasion to burn it.

How many legs and fingers has that fellow got in his right hand? What a wonderful left hand.

The election returns this afternoon made Republicans smile and take immense courage, while the Democrats were more or less despondent and blue.

Yesterday they twitted the Republicans of building a new postoffice for a Democratic postmaster, but now they take it all back and call it a joke.
